

Quality policy

Nomo Kullager AB is one of Scandinavia's leading companies in slide and rolling bearings, power transmissions, seals and related services. Our company has strong technical skills and high level of service.

We are a company with activities involving import, stocking, sales and distribution of the above mentioned products.

We will jointly work to gain customer satisfaction and profitability of the business. This is a prerequisite for the company's development and long-term survival.

To achieve this, we shall:

- With the customers specified requirements deliver the products that we have the possibility to procure from our suppliers.
- Ensure that our suppliers can supply the requested product quality.
- Create a customer - supplier relationship between and within the various functions, where every employee is responsible for the quality of their own work.
- Ensure that the quality policy is implemented and that the requirements of operations and products are well known.
- Continue encouraging the employee creative suggestions for improvements to ensure that we continually develop and improve our business.
- Ensure that all employee have adequate and sufficient training for their duties, which must be included in the company's planned training programs.

We are responsible for continuously evaluating and following up our quality management system that meets the requirements of ISO 9001.
